Maria E. Ceriotti defends healthcare providers, hospitals, and businesses in medical malpractice cases, employment disputes, and general liability cases. She focuses on reducing a client's risk, resolving disputes efficiently, and protecting her clients' reputations through strategic, results-driven advocacy.

Clients value her clear communication, attention to detail, and responsiveness. They also appreciate her commitment to delivering practical, effective solutions.

Her path to becoming an attorney was inspired by a love of learning and a fascination with how complex systems shape everyday lives. Practicing law gives her ongoing opportunities for intellectual challenge and growth, which she brings to each case she handles.

Outside of work, she enjoys reading and traveling (both of which allow her to explore new perspectives) as well as spending quality time with friends and family.
