Seth R. Feldman is a pragmatic, creative problem solver who defends clients in trucking and transportation, motor vehicle accident, and products liability cases. His clients appreciate his ability to understand their needs and his diligence in finding solutions.

Before joining HeplerBroom, Mr. Feldman focused on providing legal services to entrepreneurs, guiding them in how to form, operate, and, when desired, successfully exit their businesses. Prior to becoming an attorney, he owned and operated an independent clothing boutique.

As an adjunct faculty member of Saint Louis University's School for Professional Studies, Mr. Feldman drew on his legal and business experience to guide students in understanding entrepreneurship and the law in the highly regulated cannabis industry.
