Audra L. Zobrist defends clients in asbestos and toxic tort products and premises liability cases. Although she represents defendants from a broad range of industries, she understands that every client is unique and has distinct business goals. These unique factors guide how she develops the appropriate legal strategy for individual clients. Her clients also depend on her vast industry knowledge to develop solutions that fit their needs.

In counseling clients, she emphasizes fact development and creative legal strategies. This has led to favorable outcomes for many clients.

In addition to her work on asbestos cases, Ms. Zobrist serves as regional defense counsel for a consumer product company involved in multi-state product liability litigation regarding talc. She also represents individuals seeking Social Security Disability benefits.
